When Cliff Numark ran for City Council in 2008, he made six promises to Torrance residents:

- Strengthen public safety
- Promote business investment in Torrance
- Make government more accessible to residents
- Protect the environment
- Fight traffic caused by overdevelopment
- Support Torrance seniors and public education

Numark has delivered on each of those promises.

He fought to create a professional crime scene investigative team on the Torrance Police Department, won federal stimulus dollars for Torrance to repair streets and purchase hybrid buses, and protected seniors and students from transit rate increases. Numark has been a champion for open government, making city government actions searchable and spearheading city e-mail notifications to residents. He also pushed for an assessment of the city's energy usage that will lead to hundreds of thousands of dollars in energy efficiency savings annually.

Your support will allow Cliff to continue his work. For more information about Cliff's campaign, visit www.cliffnumark.com.
